Harrison Porter began his law enforcement career with LVMPD in 2009, serving as a patrol officer at the Northeast Area Command for six years and later as a Field Training Officer. He was promoted to sergeant in 2016, where he led patrol and training operations, and to lieutenant in January 2023, returning to Northeast Area Command as the graveyard shift lieutenant and Watch Commander.
Beyond his operational roles, Porter is deeply committed to advocacy and leadership. He has served on the Board of the Las Vegas Police Managers and Supervisors Association (LVPMSA) since 2021, was appointed Vice Chairman in 2023, reelected in 2025, and appointed Chairman in 2026. In this role, he leads legislative advocacy, collective bargaining, and employee representation, most recently helping secure the passage of SB 298 and SB 7 to strengthen protections for Nevada's law enforcement professionals.

Jim Seebock
LAW ENFORCEMENT LEADERSHIP
Jim Seebock is a retired Assistant Sheriff with the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department, where he served for 30 years in a wide range of operational, investigative, and executive leadership assignments. Throughout his career, he held positions including Patrol Officer, Narcotics Detective, K9 Handler, Sergeant, Lieutenant, Captain, Deputy Chief, and Assistant Sheriff. His leadership assignments included overseeing SWAT, the Southern Nevada Counter Terrorism Center, and various patrol commands. As an executive, he oversaw Community Policing, Homeland Security, and Detention Services, providing him with extensive experience leading large, complex organizations through operational and organizational challenges.
Following his retirement from law enforcement, Jim continued his commitment to public service and leadership. In 2023, he was elected to the Henderson City Council and was reelected in 2024. He currently serves on several regional boards addressing transportation, public safety, housing, flood control, and public health. His career has provided him with a unique perspective on leadership across both law enforcement and local government.
Throughout his career, Jim has been passionate about developing leaders, strengthening organizational culture, and building high-performing teams. His leadership philosophy emphasizes the importance of balancing results with relationships, creating a culture of accountability, and recognizing that an organization's greatest asset is its people. He believes effective leadership is not defined by rank or position, but by the ability to positively influence others and shape the future of an organization.
